Background

Timberlane produces custom exterior shutters, renowned for exceptional quality and customization capabilities, in variety of high-quality, high-performance materials. There are no stock sizes or configurations; all Timberlane shutters are built-to-order to 1/8" exacting specifications at Timberlane's manufacturing facility in the USA. Timberlane products are not available in big box stores, and the company upholds its commitment to 100% customer delight by working directly with trade professionals and homeowners each and every day.

The Timberlane Experience, began early in 1995, when founder and CEO, Rick Skidmore, was dissatisfied with the quality, workmanship and options found in commercially-available exterior shutters. He began what would soon be recognized as one of the industry leaders in exterior home shutters and outdoor design. Since that day, Timberlane Inc. has exponentially grown to now employ master craftsmen, woodworkers, engineers, entry-level apprentices, customer experience specialists and more to serve its ever-growing customer base.

Its flagship brands, Endurian™ Shutters, Premium Wood Shutters, and new Supremity™ Shutters, provide the traditional to the most avant-garde customers a way to reflect their distinctive styles, and Timberlane's full line of heavy duty hardware provides added assurance. The new Timberlane Planters, part of the Timberlane Home Collection, coordinate gracefully with Timberlane Shutter designs.

The Timberlane brand has become synonymous with exceptional quality and is regularly specified by some of the most respected and influential architects, decorators, contractors, and historians throughout the USA and beyond. Timberlane shutters currently hang on the windows of the White House; and as the only company formally endorsed by the National Trust for Historic Preservation, Timberlane Inc. is proud to have its shutters hang on some of the nation's most prestigious historic sites, academic institutions, Palladio Home Award winners, and even Disney's Famous Haunted Mansion. Recently, Timberlane Shutters again graced the Southern Living Design Home and has been featured on This Old House, I Want That! and more. Timberlane Shutters can be found in neighborhoods across the USA where quality and attention to detail are of importance.
